

DRIVEN BY ALGORITHMS

TikTok's influencers change how we view the world

TikTok is a unique place where culture starts and where creativity knows no bounds – where anyone can discover, create, and share content they love. In 2021, over 1 billion people turned to TikTok to be entertained, find and share their joy with others, and learn new things.

This year, the community discovered new ways to express their creativity, championed teams and the causes they care about, and found new favourites – from recipes to new music and ways to clean the house. Across the world they saw creators rise to stardom, while content from big little communities like #BookTok, #AnimalTok and #ScienceTok found a home on the platform.

TikTok competes with giants like YouTube, Instagram, and Facebook and is ranked 7th ahead of social network sites such as LinkedIn, Twitter, Pinterest, and Snapchat. Outside of China, users of the app were averaging up to 28 minutes per day on TikTok.

What helps TikTok stand out among its competition is that it's more of an entertainment platform, instead of a lifestyle platform. The idea that practically anyone can become a content provider because of the simplicity of use, is what makes TikTok so attractive across the globe. It appeals to content creators, and that is why they are exploring ways to improve their growth.

Whatever you're interested in, whether it's #CareerTok or #WitchTok, on TikTok you can find and connect with a community that shares your passion. This year, some of the popular communities focused on pets, sports and education. Find out more about the communities on the rise this year.
